KEY PROJECTS

Herbs Classification

GitHub repository: https://github.com/kkh0714/herbs_classification

- A CV group project that classified 20 different species of culinary herbs using various pre-trained models. Images were captured with phones or cameras to simulate a realistic work process.
- Results demonstrated the robustness of pre-trained models in classifying herbs with distinct changes in appearance (from healthy to withered), though the models struggled with different species of herbs with similar appearance.

TV show Classification and Search Project

GitHub repository: https://github.com/kkh0714/classification_and_search

- Classify the genres of a TV show based on its description with Word Embedding neural network model. A simple search engine BM25 is implemented and display the most likely TV show names based on each search query.
- Successfully putting Classification and Search systems with Machine Learning Models into a production environment
